Creation of The Aboriginal Healing & Wellness Strategy

The Aboriginal Healing and Wellness Strategy (AHWS) evolved out of a 1992 province-wide consultation. More than 7,000 people provided input about the need to address family violence, health and well-being amung Aboriginal people in Ontario. In December of 1994, the Ontario Government created AHWS with the signing of 13 implementation agreements with the major provincial Aboriginal organizations and the Chiefs of Independant First Nations. Fifteen agreements were signed in 1999 and renewed in 2004 for an additional five year term. The Strategy offers culterally appropriate programs and servicees that are community designed and delivered.

N'Swakamok Indigenous Friendship Centre's AHWS program started in Decemeber of 1995
